Bramhall Old Hall from Bridge. This fine old mansion of timber and plaster, dating from the time of Edward III., was, until recently, the home of the Davenport family. The interior is no less interesting than the exterior. The Great Hall, wainscotted with oak, the spiral oak staircase, and the fine old drawing room are most unique. The latter measures 36 feet by 30 feet, and contains a number of armorial coats and the Arms of Queen Elizabeth.

King deck a gaudy bird is bad enough, but
so unlucky, etc.
good odds for you

Bramhall Old Hall from Bridge. This fine old mansion of timber and plaster, dating from the time of Edward III, was, until recently, the home of the Davyden family. The interior is no less interesting than the exterior. The Great Hall, wainscotted with oak, the spiral oak staircase, and the fine old drawing room are most unique. The latter measures 36 feet by 30 feet, and contains a number of armorial coats and the Arms of Queen Elizabeth.

Many happy returns
of the day I didn't forget last night. I can't think of some little things that will be as yet to you.
Love Th.
